TORONTO, ON (JULY 28, 2020) – Canada Goose (NYSE/TSX: GOOS) today announced the appointment of Adam Meek to the new role of General Manager of Footwear & Accessories. Adam will lead the ongoing development and execution of the company’s global footwear strategy, as well as oversee the brand’s accessories collection.

“Now, with all of the pillars in place and our strategy crystalized, we’ve never been closer to bringing our long-term vision for footwear to life,” said Dani Reiss, President & CEO, Canada Goose. “Bringing Adam on board is a key part of making Canada Goose footwear a reality, which we are committed to executing in the right way, at the right time. Adam’s entrepreneurial spirit, passion for footwear, and deep expertise in product development and global product management make him perfectly suited for this dynamic new role.”

Adam brings more than 20 years of global footwear experience to this role, having held leadership positions with prominent global brands including Sperry, Nike and Lacoste Footwear. Most recently, Adam served as Senior Vice President of Product at Sperry–Wolverine Worldwide, where he led global product teams in footwear. Prior to that, Adam led Nike Sportswear’s Footwear Merchandising function for Western Europe and served as Global Head of Category & Merchandising for Lacoste Footwear.

“My career in the global apparel and footwear industry has taken me to Europe and North America, and I’ve witnessed first-hand the incredible global strength of the Canada Goose brand,” said Meek. “It’s a rare opportunity to be able to join a company with such a rich history that still has so much opportunity ahead. As a brand that’s synonymous with authenticity and whose function-first products are developed with purpose, I believe Canada Goose has an incredible opportunity in footwear and I’m excited to join the team and help define and develop this category in a way that no other brand has before.”
